

LIKE A FAIRY TALE.

A Carpenter in Ohio Suddenly Comes Into a Big Fortune.

HE IS COMING HOME WITH $200,000

After Establishing the Justice of His Claim by a Romantic Chain of Evidence—The Money Left by Relatives Whom He Never Saw.

SPRINGFIELD, O., June 9.—A story rivaling in richness of plot the wildest tales of the Arabian Nights is a subject of discussion here, with many interested "Ohs" and "Wonderfuls." The central and leading figure in the story is James Wood, up to a short time ago a poor carpenter of this city, who depended for his support upon the sweat of his brow, and many days the perspiration came very freely. He is now en route home from England, the proud and elated owner of property worth over $200,000, and the stranger part of the story is the fact that the wealth came from relatives he never knew.

Not quite two years ago Mr. Wood was apprised by letter from Waterford, Ireland, that he was the heir to immense possessions in England. Mr. Wood at first gave no credence to the report, but finally placed the matter in the hands of James Johnson, Jr., of the law firm of Pringle & Johnson, this city. Mr. Johnson had had so many applicants for English estates going a-begging that he was dubious at first. Instinct, however, seemed to tell him that there was something in the case. Investigation was made, revealing the following sensational facts:

In the year 1826 Wood's grandfather, also named James, was a lieutenant in the English navy. The ship he was aboard put in port at Waterford, Ireland, one day in the year named, for supplies. She remained there for about two weeks. In the interim the young English officer attended a Waterford ball and at first sight with one of the fair maidens present. He declared his love to her, proposed marriage and was accepted. They were married in the evening at Cork, a few miles distant. The next morning his ship set sail and he sorrowfully parted from his wife, who was poor, but had personal charms galore. It is not known exactly what became of James Wood, the first, suffices it to say that he never married again. In due time a son was born to the fair Waterford lass. He was also christened James, and will be known as the second. He grew up, married on arriving at man's estate and shortly afterward died. His wife gave birth to a son, also christened James Wood.

In 1828 a law was in existence in Great Britain and Ireland to the effect that if the marriage of a Catholic and a Protestant was performed by a Catholic, such marriage should be illegal, and the priest making such marriage was liable to imprisonment. It was in 1828 that Daniel Connell was successful in having this infamous measure abrogated. Here Mr. Johnson met a stickler. In case the marriage was made by a Catholic, Wood's chances of obtaining the immense fortune were entirely gone.

BY ACCIDENT, ALMOST, the church in which the marriage on which so much hinged took place was found. The sexton was a grandson of the one that witnessed the memorable marriage, and reference to the yellow leaves of an ancient record showed that the marriage had been performed by a member of the Church of England. It was an easy matter after this discovery to secure the fortune left by the brother of James Wood the first. He died in August, 1889. The brother's Christian name was John, and he was one of the most famous characters in England. He had a magnificent country house, park, etc., at Arundel, Chester county, England. Part of his outfit consisted of 103 veils, fifty-nine pairs of riding boots, etc., in addition to acres and acres of land he left £80,000 in English two per cent consols. James Wood is the heir direct. A partial distribution of property was made on May 16 in Chancery Court, in London. Mr. Wood's family, consisting of his wife, two sons and two daughters, is still here. He is expected home in a few days.

A SOCIAL SENSATION.

Charles Dunham, of Chicago, and His Mysterious Widow—A Big Sale Promised.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Some weeks ago a man named Charles H. Dunham, who was reputed to be a wealthy dealer in railroad supplies, but about whom little was known, died of alcoholism at the Washington Home. Dunham had lived in Chicago for some years, but it was said that he came of a good family in New York, and that he was well known in society circles in Baltimore and Washington. In his dying hours he was nursed by an attractive young woman who claimed to be his wife. To-day, under the name of Dora F. Dunham, she was appointed administrator of the estate in the probate court. Protracted litigation promises to grow out of Dunham's death, as his partner in the railroad supply business, a man named Fenn, claims to have a bill of sale of all the property made to him by Dunham shortly before his death. Mrs. Dunham's attorney declines to give her maiden name, but says she was a Washington society girl; that she was united to Dunham by a common law marriage in Baltimore May 13, 1889, and that Dunham has recognized her as his wife since that time, not only in Baltimore and New York, but in the fashionable circles in which they moved in New York.

A GOOD RECORD.

How Commissioner Raum is Expediting the Pension Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 9.—Commissioner Raum, of the Pension Bureau, is making arrangements to still further increase the issue of pension certificates and hopes to be able to reach a daily issue of from 1,000 to 1,000, which would be an increase of about 400.

During Gen. Raum's incumbency the number of cases awaiting investigation by special examiners in the field has been reduced from 14,235 to 2,300 and in consequence about forty special examiners now in the field will be called in. There are now about seventeen vacancies in the bureau which will soon be filled and these appointments, together with the forty special examiners, will increase the working force of the office to fifty-seven.

Gen. Raum said to-day that his present force was doing exceedingly good work and he expected to make a better record this year than ever before. The number of certificates issued last week was 5,067, the first payments on which aggregated $594,859.

Simply Send Him Back.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The case of the English Coachman Howlett who came to this country under contract to work for Mr. Eustis, of Washington, D. C., has been transferred to this city. It is now known that Howlett was allowed to land and his present whereabouts are unknown. As the law makes no special provision for the return of a prohibited immigrant after he has landed and entered the country, the treasury officials are puzzled as to how they can now accomplish the return of Howlett.

The Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—To-day's session of the cabinet was devoted principally to the consideration of the Bering Sea question and the advisability of extending the 4 per cent bonds. No action was taken on the bond question.

Bankrupt Flour Merchants.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Alfred Freeman, Henry Kopper and E. C. Haight, composing the firm of Charles Haight & Co., flour commission merchants, at 24 State street, made an assignment without preference to Parker P. Simonds. Mr. Freeman was also a partner in the firm of A. A. Freeman & Co., of La Crosse, Wis., of Freeman and Ruyler, of River Falls, Wis., both large flour mills. The firm claimed a capital of $400,000, have always stood very high in credit and had the confidence of the trade. The Sheriff to-day served an attachment which was obtained against Robert Gregg & Co., millers of Carmon Falls, Minn., by the Chemical National Bank for $8,300 on drafts dated January 30. It was supposed that Haight & Co. had flour belonging to Gregg & Co. in their stores.

Strawn, near Twenty-sixth and California streets, and after quarreling with him for a moment, drew his revolver and shot Strawn dead. Jealousy was the cause, although there seems to be no foundation for it. The murderer was arrested but refuses to say a word about the affair.

A Long Chain.

It is estimated that if the crackers baked at the big Marvin establishment every day were placed in a line they would form a chain that would reach from here to San Francisco. And they do reach that far, for people all over the country realize the superiority of Marvin's Crackers, and order them so rapidly that the big ovens can scarcely supply the demand. Remember that Marvin's Crackers are the best and don't buy any others.

A HORRIBLE CRIME.

A Columbus Man and His Wife Brutally Treat a Young Girl.

COLUMBUS, O., June 9.—W. L. Carter and his wife were arrested here this afternoon on a charge of committing a horrible crime. Last night Carrie Bell Culbertson, aged seventeen years, was invited to the rooms of the couple about 7 o'clock and went without the knowledge of her mother. She failed to return and search was instituted. Upon calling at the quarters of the couple after midnight, they denied that the girl had been there, but while the latter's mother and brother were at the door she staggered from a corner of the room. She was taken home but did not regain consciousness for several hours. She then told that as soon as she entered the room she was forced to drink drugged beer. A physician was called in and an examination revealed that the girl had been outraged and subjected to the most horrible treatment, and she may not recover from the shock.

One of the men killed was a head brakeman and the other two are unknown.

ST. JOHN, N. B., June 7.—Moffatt's saw mill, Murray's lumber mill and James Gillie's dwelling at the head of tide-water, Restigouche county, were burned yesterday. Heavy forest fires are raging in the woods opposite Campbelltown on the north shore, and the people of that town are alarmed. The whole peninsula, over 100 miles in length, is threatened, and the village of Nouvelle is in danger. Farmers have lost crops, fences and out-buildings, and the outlook is gloomy. Nothing but rain will prevent a general disaster. The loss already has been very great. Fires are sweeping away the woods between Penobscus and Anagogics, and are destroying a great deal of valuable timber.

REFORMED PRESBYTERIANS.

The Deposed Ministers May Return if They Are Repentant, But Are They?

PITTSBURGH, June 9.—At the afternoon session of the Reformed Presbyterian Synod Dr. McAllister began the closing speech of the trial, which led to a question of veracity between himself and Rev. E. M. Milligan, the latter finally being sustained by witnesses.

Moderator McAllister then announced that questions could be asked, and Elder Torrence, of New York, put such sharp and embarrassing queries to the Conservatives, he was shut off at once amid cries of "foul" and "snap judgment" from the Liberals. A set of resolutions was then sprung on the synod, offering in effect to take the deposed ministers back into the fold providing they were sorry and did not do it again. Prof. Wilson then made a speech against the adoption of the resolutions and was followed by several other five-minute speeches for and against the resolutions until the hour of adjournment arrived.

The general impression prevails that the resolutions will pass, but that the young men will not accept the conditions.

King of Medicines

Serofolus Humor—A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, serofolus, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed years. At that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well."

"Early in 1880 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then have not lost a single day on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEMM, 2 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

Sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. L. HOOD & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

ALOPECIA, FALLING HAIR.

Head a Fitting Sight. Hair Came Out in Fingerfuls. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

In November, 1888, there came a bald spot on the back of my head. In January, 1889, this commenced to grow larger, and other spots came until the back of my head was almost destitute of hair. My head was a piteous sight, the hair came out by the fingerfuls, and seemed entirely dead. I consulted your book, "How to Cure Skin Diseases," and found that I had "Alopecia." I immediately began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. The hair stopped falling out, but at first I despaired of ever having any more hair. I persevered in the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and in three months' time a light, downy growth of hair came out, which turned black and became coarse. Now my head is entirely well and covered with hair.

C. M. WAXING, Sunburg, N. C.

Little Baby's Skin Cured.

When my baby was about one month old, a skin disease made its appearance on his forehead, and continued growing worse until it covered nearly his whole body. I purchased your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the first lot took away almost entirely all signs of eczema. The second lot removed all signs of the disease, and the child is now perfectly well and has fine skin. I thank you most heartily for the cure of my child.
